

3 of the best BRIGHT ACCESSORIES

We're mad about bold, colourful accessories right now. From Matt Wingfield's cute new prints (Easter treat, anyone?) to textile designer Pat Albeck's graphic tea towels and Compagnie de Provence's tattoo-inspired 20th-anniversary packaging, these zingy finds will cheer up your home.

TALL AND HANDSOME

The original Alvar Aalto collection of vases made waves when it was launched at the 1937 Paris World's Fair. Today, Iittala continues to tempt us by re-imagining it in various sizes and colours, including this version, which stands at 25.5cm tall. We're sure Mr Aalto would have approved. £99 each, Skandium (skandium.com).

Stop press! With more than 400 international brands on show, the Design Centre at Chelsea Harbour is the go-to place for decorating essentials. This month, be sure to visit during its London Design Week (24-26 March) and look out for ELLE Decoration's pick of the most inspiring showrooms (designcentrechelseaharbour.co.uk)

Time will tell Biegert and Funk's 'Qlocktwo' clock spells out the time with its clever LED display encased in polished acrylic and glass. It's available in six colours (including 'Cherry Cake', shown) that look great at any hour. From £799, FCI (fcilondon.co.uk).
